Spencer Pratt tweets pics of Heidi Montag from CBB house, denies phone's been stolen

Celebrity Big Brother 2013 star hits Twitter despite the whole NO PHONE RULE thing

Celebrity Big Brother 2013 housemate Spencer Pratt had fans thinking he'd already broken a rule from the moment he stepped foot onto our telly boxes.

Appearing to hit Twitter from the CBB basement, Spencer replied to a surprised fan: "come on, girl, it's reality tv. I get special exceptions. Are you really surprised?"

Well, yeah. We are.

"Listen, tweeps, keep calm and carry on. This is perfectly explainable. I have been allowed to tweet as a plot device in the season," another tweet read.

"Everyone treats this sh*t as if it were sacred. It's all a game. So I can tweet. So what? Heidi's right here telling me what to write," he added.

The reality star - who became famous for his temper on US show The Hills - then began showing off pictures of his wife.

Having continued to converse with his fan base from that day forward, Spencer has also become embroiled in a confusing story of whether or not it's really him who's controlling the phone.

Some suggestions that it had been stolen surfaced on Twitter, after his wife told fans that her husband had lost the brand-new phone she bought him for Christmas.

"So basically he could've lost it anywhere in the UK. I know it'll turn up but I have to give him a hard time about it! :)" Heidi wrote, before entering the CBB house.

But the mystery person (or Spencer, we just don't know) wrote: "Thanks for the concern. No hacking here. Actually it's good I found my phone. Contacts, pictures, all sorts of things some1 might want."

Confused isn't the word.
